

Step 1: Reflect on Where You Are

Goal: Understand what's working and what's not.

Actions:

- Write down 3 things you enjoy about your current role.
- Write down 3 things that feel draining or misaligned.
- Ask yourself: What do I want more of in my work?

Step 2: Reconnect with Your Strengths and Values

Goal: Clarify what matters most to you.

Actions:

- List your top 3 strengths (technical or interpersonal).
- Identify your core values (e.g., creativity, autonomy, impact).
- Use a free tool like VIA Character Strengths or CliftonStrengths for deeper insight.

Step 3: Explore and Learn

Goal: Reignite curiosity and growth.

Actions:

- Choose one new skill to learn this month (e.g., cloud architecture, coaching, AI fundamentals).
- Block 30 minutes weekly for learning (courses, articles, podcasts).
- Join a tech community or internal guild to stay inspired.

Step 4: Talk to People

Goal: Gain perspective and uncover opportunities.

Actions:

- Schedule a career conversation with your manager or mentor.
- Ask: What strengths do you see in me? and Where do you think I could grow next?
- Reach out to someone in a role you admire and ask about their journey.

Step 5: Take Small, Brave Steps

Goal: Build momentum and confidence.

Actions:

- Volunteer for a new project or task that stretches your skills.
- Share an idea in a meeting or write a short internal blog post.
- Track your wins weekly to build motivation.
